Section-5: Terms of Reference

1. Background

Bangalore, the capital city of Karnataka state, is one of the fastest growing cities in India and is branded the 'Silicon Valley of India' for spearheading the growth of Information and Communication Technology (ICT) based industry. With the growth of IT and industries in other sectors (e.g., textiles, light engineering and defence) and the onset of economic liberalization since the early 1990s, Bangalore has taken lead in service-based industries fuelling substantial growth of the city both economically and spatially. Consequently, the prevalent land-use has been under tremendous pressure for conversion to non-agricultural uses, chiefly: residential, institutional, industrial, commercial and transportation.

Bangalore has become a cosmopolitan city attracting people and business alike, within India and internationally. It has become a symbol of India's integration into the global economy, but is faced with a series of serious structural challenges that are manifesting in poor service delivery, traffic congestion, sprawl, land development conflicts, pockets of severe under development, flooding and associated risks and a range of institutional, jurisdictional and governance challenges.

Bangalore has witnessed extensive growth in the last decade substantially because of globalization, regional agglomeration and increasing urbanization of growth corridors across southern India. It is however, significantly constrained because of its inland location, severe water resources constraints and the need to diversify urban development across Karnataka.

Bangalore's urban expansion has extended over the last two decades well beyond the erstwhile Bangalore City Corporation jurisdiction, into the Bangalore Metropolitan Area (BMA). The creation of Bruhath Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP, Greater Bangalore City Corporation) by the State Government in January 2007 and resulted in the addition of 8 neighbouring municipal councils and 110 villages. With several large-scale infrastructure development projects like the Bangalore-Mysore Infrastructure Corridor project, the Bangalore International Airport and the ring roads, Bangalore's urban outgrowth is no longer confined to the erstwhile city corporation limits but is now spread well beyond.

At present the BBMP area is notified as 'Greater Bengaluru Area' under the provisions of Greater Bengaluru Governance Act 2024, vide notification dated: 15.05.2025 which covers 686.82 sq km out of 1227.48 sq km of Bengaluru city Local Planning Area. Bengaluru is experiencing enormous urban growth beyond BBMP area transforming semi urban areas into urban areas that has resulted in creation of Urban Local Bodies namely Madanayakanahalli CMC, Hebbagodi CMC, Hunasamaranahalli TMC, Chikkabanavara TMC, Konnapanaagrahara TMC, Doddatoguru TP and Electronic City Industrial Township Authority (ELCITA), that falls under the remaining Local Planning area measuring 540.66 sq km beyond GBA (BBMP) limits.

BDA had prepared draft Master Plan 2031 and the Draft Master Plan was approved by the Competent Authority on 22.11.2017. All maps and reports were prepared in accordance with Section 12 of KTCP Act, 1961 using satellite imagery procured during 2012. The existing land use map was also prepared by updating land uses during 2012–2015. The existing land use was published during 2015.

Draft Master Plan was prepared and submitted to the State Government. The Government approved the Draft Master Plan on 22.11.2017. Subsequently a decision was taken by the State Government to withdraw the approval accorded for the Draft Master Plan. The Draft Master Plan was prepared after collection of primary and secondary data required for preparation of the Master Plan. GBA will facilitate to procure available data with BDA useful for preparation of Master Plan.

Bangalore Master Plan: An instrument of Land use Policy Plan for Development and Re-development of Bengaluru and an Integrated Framework for City Development.

Indian cities have historically focused on land-use policy as a primary instrument to guide urban development. Other potential instruments include economic development, infrastructure and location policy, industrial, employment and investment policies, land use and transport integration through TOD and other instruments, affordable housing, environmental protection, heritage preservation etc., All of these instruments, in conjunction with the responses from government, businesses and residents, can shape the future of cities.

The land-use policy for urban areas in the state of Karnataka was conceived in the 1960s and guided by the preparation of Comprehensive Development Plans or Master Plans as mandated by the provisions of the Karnataka Town and Country Planning (KTCP) Act of 1961. KTCP Act has enabled preparation of development plans for settlements in Karnataka. Typically, Master Plans have been indicating permissible land-use through zoning, building bye-laws and building height restrictions (through a specified floor-area ratio (FAR or floor-space-index) based on projected population.

The first step towards planning for development of Bangalore was initiated with the Outline Development Plan (ODP), prepared by the Bangalore City Planning Authority during the 1970s. The Bangalore Development Authority (BDA) was subsequently created vide the Bangalore Development Authority (BDA) Act of 1976. The BDA was mandated with the task of preparing a Comprehensive Development Plan (CDP) for the Bangalore Metropolitan Area (BDA, 2007).

In 2007, the Government of Karnataka notified the BDA– Revised Master Plan (RMP) 2015 for a Local Planning Area that consists of 387 villages, 7 City Municipal Councils (CMC) and one Town Municipal Council (TMC).

Accordingly in the RMP 2015, 56 sq km Of residential area has been opened up for mixed land use, which means certain commercial activities would be allowed in these areas (Table 1). About 42 per cent or 338 sq km has been earmarked for residential use, up from 243 sq km earmarked in the Comprehensive Development Plan 1995. An attempt was made to develop strategic and local area plans, and finally, design neighbour hoods- but there were challenges experienced in implementation.

A notable development in the preparation of Bangalore RMP 2015 was the use of high- resolution satellite remote sensing data and Geographic Information Systems (GIS). The high resolution satellite remote sensing data (with a spatial resolution of 61 cm) was used to map the actual land-use to compare with the Comprehensive Development Plan 1995. GIS-based methods were also used to map and notify land-use for future growth.

As per KTCP Act 1961, Section 4-B & 4-A(1) Vide Government notification No. NaAaE 515 MNJ 2025 Dated: 10-10-2025, the erstwhile BBMP area with an extent of 686.82Sqm was declared as Greater Bengaluru Local Planning Area and Greater Bengaluru Authority was declared as the Planning Authority. Greater Bengaluru Local planning area was carved out by Bengaluru local Planning area. As per Section 9 of the KTCP Act, 1961 the Master plan has to be prepared within two years of the declaration of the Local Planning area. GBA has therefore initiated the process of preparing Master Plan; Total area under GBA is 686.82Sqm for which proposals need to be formulated.

1.1.1 Basemap and Existing Landuse

Basemap and existing landuse data prepared by KSRSAC (as detailed in data sheet)will be provided to the agency. However, the basemap and existing landuse data provided shall be verified and updated through ground truthing and field surveys by the agency and shall make necessary corrections (including spatial and vector correction on GIS) to fit into the standards mentioned in this document as required to enhance the accuracy of basemap and existing landuse data. The agency is also expected to carry out the structural condition survey of building simultaneously during the land use updation survey. The consultant shall undertake a visual assessment to identify the dilapidated buildings/ cluster of dilapidated buildings with an objective to identify areas for renewal /re-development. In addition, the consultant shall also collect secondary data if available for this exercise. All necessary field surveys for the entire local planning area, as mentioned in the KTCP Act and such other surveys mentioned in this document shall be carried out by the agency for the Master Plan.

1.1.2 Opportunities and challenges of Master Plan:

Some critical issues to be addressed during the Master Plan for Bangalore include:

1. The GIS and time-series economic, social, and infrastructural and spatial data base that will form the basis for the Master Planning process will need to be assembled and integrated, within the premises of the GBA. This will enable data security and enable better implementation and enforcement (for this purpose GIS Team of agency has to work within the GBA premises).
2. While the process and output of the Master Plan will be compliant with the requirements of the KTCP Act, a number of new directions will need to be taken that will bring the process in line with current reality and the needs of Bangalore:
    a. A coordination mechanism will be established to bring the key stakeholders in urban planning, economic development and service provision together to provide inputs in the Master Plan preparation and review Proposals/Outputs. Further, As per GBG Act 2024, Section 18 (1), a Sectoral expert Committee will be constituted consisting of expert from various fields to guide and provide inputs and review Proposals/Outputs.
    b. A rationalization of planning boundaries will need to be affected to enable better coordination and convergence with other agencies and stakeholders.
    c. The Master Plan should be sensitive to the need to develop a liveable; economically and socially inclusive; environmentally sustainable and economically robust and innovative city and involve all key stake holders, especially the poor and vulnerable in its visioning, development and implementation. In particular, clear economic, social and sustainable development goals will be established for the city and accordingly, a growth strategy based on either compact city principles or other suitable principles which enable Authority to take appropriate decision.

d. The process of legally mandated review and objections and public participation has to be integrated into the Plan process at city and Corporations/zone level. The expenses towards the venue and audio – visual equipment will be borne by the client and all other expenditure for implementing the Communication and Outreach plan including conducting workshops, public participation programs to be borne by the Agency. Cost of obtaining legal review, if pertains to GBA will be borne by GBA. The proceedings of this public-facing process will enable transparency and should be publicly available.
e. The agency will assist the GBA in implementation and enforcement of the Master Plan, using GIS-based technologies and establishing standard processes, and protocols and the institutional capacity within GBA during and for a one year after final approval of the Master Plan.

   The agency will establish a Master Plan and underlying GIS databases and planning systems that would enable forward compatibility with a transition to an appropriate dynamic spatial Planning Support System (PSS) to enable option creation and appraisal, implementation and appraisal (Development of PSS will comprise the tasks involved as per standard industry practice or as required by the Authority) A public facing sub-section of the PSS and associated IMS could serve as the ‘live’ document that will enable an effective citizen and authority interface. A web application that is interactive and query enabled can support seeking public participation/comments during the publication of Draft Master Plan stage. The web application may be integrated with the website of the GBA.

Requisite geospatial data from key agencies should be collected / collated by the agency and integrated with the master geospatial database.

v The Agency shall generate 3D Digital Surface Model and Digital Elevation Model using the high resolution remote sensing satellite imagery. A 2.0 m contour interval contour map shall also be generated. The Digital Surface Model should clearly depict the heights of features/ objects on ground (including buildings, trees, etc.). The Digital Elevation Model shall represent the height information without any information about the surface. Specifications for GIS based Base map and master plan preparation are to be based on AMRUT and to include missing components if any so that, the GIS maps are on par with the mapping standards followed in other cities of Karnataka/India. For preparing large scale urban base map at the scale as specified by GBA. GBA will facilitate to provide all the available data on the previous Master Plans with BDA.

Task 3: Identify and establish deviations in existing land-use with that of proposed land-use of RMP 2015 detailed exercise will identify and list deviations for each planning districts.

Task 4: Prepare an integrated geospatial database collecting and collating appropriate data

i The Agency shall undertake surveys as specified under Rule 42 of the Karnataka Planning Authority Rules, 1965 to collect data to assess the status of Physical and social infrastructure, Economy, livelihood, land and housing, Transport, communications and connectivity , Risk, vulnerability and potential disaster hot-spots, Heritage and culturally significant places etc., and such other aspects. Agency shall collect the information regarding physical and social infrastructure from concerned line department and shall update the details by conducting physical surveys wherever necessary.

In order to prepare an integrated geospatial database for the above mentioned aspects, the Agency shall carry-out the following studies and surveys (and any additional surveys that they deem fit) to establish the detailed baseline database.

a) Ecological Survey: In an attempt to retain the 'Garden city' tag, a detailed ecological compilation based on secondary data shall be undertaken that would assess the existing flora and fauna (notably: birds, butterflies, mammals, fishes, amphibians and reptiles), and ecological habitats across the local planning area. The activity shall also map all wetlands (tanks and water bodies), streams and drainage (including inventory of drains and canals), parks and open spaces including forests, all ecologically sensitive and protected areas along with their existing status. An inventory of trees shall be undertaken along all arterial roads and ring roads along with their potential threats due to developmental projects shall be incorporated.

b) Urban heat, Hazard and Vulnerability Survey and Assessment based on Secondary Data:
A detailed hazard risk assessment of the major natural and technological hazards that Bangalore is exposed to; a planning area-based assessment of physical, social, economic and environmental vulnerabilities; leading to an integrated risk multi-hazard risk assessment and an identification of hazard hot-spots in the city and its integration with GIS database. A probabilistic hazard risk assessment over a 25, 50 and 100-year & time horizon should be undertaken. The Agency shall take into cognisance of the Industrial Zoning Atlas prepared by the Karnataka State Pollution Control Board as well.

An assessment of the carrying capacity of the existing drainage systems and its performance especially with a focus on the man -made drainage systems in the GBA limit shall be done for proposing and adopting mitigation measures. The potential impacts and risks that may arise due to future estimated rainfall on the performance of existing stormwater management systems shall be assessed by considering rainfall intensity, duration, imperviousness from current land use conditions, continued urbanization. The agency shall study and identify important and frequent flooding areas and reasons for failure in surface runoffs, capacity of present drainage systems and propose a robust drainage system with capacity enhancements strategies to mitigate any urban flooding in future. The agency shall collect and review available study reports/research documents/project reports etc from various experts and authorities.

The Agency shall collect information on stream, drain and tank highest flood level (HFL), low water levels (LWL), discharge velocity etc. from available past records, local enquiries and visible signs, if any, on structural components and embankments over a 50-year period. The Agency shall obtain rain fall data at appropriate grid density and the status of ground and surface water and drainage systems, flood prone areas including an analysis of water quality.

The Agency shall also prepare a map showing all the water bodies, including nalas and tanks in LPA as separate layers:

a) as per the revenue records and

g) Land suitability analysis : The consultant shall do a detailed land suitability analysis using multi-variate analysis technique to study land characteristics to arrive at optimal use for specific land parcels and evaluate lands that is suitable for development for various uses. The analysis shall consider natural system constraints, and land compatibility with existing land uses and future development patterns. The land suitability analysis shall ensure that the proposed land uses in the Master Plan is prepared by data driven through detailed land suitability analysis. Some of the components that shall be considered for assessing land suitability/capability are existing land use, soil depth, slope, soil texture, surface water bodies, land values etc., After confirming the details of various water bodies based on the geo referenced and authenticated cadastral maps 'No development zones' shall first be identified based on the presence of the water bodies/natural drains and their buffer.

h) Heritage and Cultural Assessment: An assessment of the landscape, built, living and cultural heritage elements in Bangalore at an appropriate scale. The survey and assessment shall also define and identify characteristic landscapes and zones of historic, heritage and cultural value, including existing and potential conservation zones and key features. The outcomes should be integrated into an appropriate GIS database.

i) Identification /delimitation of CBD areas/ CBD revitalization/ urban redevelopment/renewal project areas: The consultant shall undertake identification and conceptualization of revitalization projects within the Central Business District (CBD) area with an objective to enhance economic activity, urban character, mobility, public spaces, and infrastructure efficiency. The consultant shall assess the existing CBD conditions, review existing land use, economic activities, circulation patterns, infrastructure, heritage assets, public spaces, environmental conditions, and urban form within the CBD area. Identify issues such as congestion, inadequate pedestrian facilities, parking deficiencies, underutilized land parcels, deteriorated public realm, and infrastructure gaps. Identify potential CBD revitalization/ redevelopment/renewal projects. Task 5: Integrated demographic, enterprise and socio-economic and transport research

A series of integrated Desk Research / data collection of households, establishments and enterprises will be undertaken to provide the basis to capture the current demographic, economic and enterprise context and assist in medium and long-term projections based on a structured questionnaire aimed at capturing the dimensions of :

i) Demographic and socio-economic characteristics including age, gender, disability, occupation, social group, consumption basket, assets and income.
ii) Establishment and enterprise type, number of workers and throughput.
iii) Access to infrastructure and public services including power and energy, telecom, water, sanitation, sewerage and solid waste
iv) Level of access to social infrastructure including healthcare, education, recreation and public spaces as per URDPFI Guidelines.
v) Comprehensive mobility patterns, existing circulation patterns, road hierarchy, Network of public transport modes, Multi-modal integration needs, feeder system availability and coverage and last mile connectivity. The study shall identify any unserved areas and extensions required for present and future residential, commercial, employment areas, corresponding infrastructure requirements for extension of services, existing road cross sections of important roads and required modifications to cross sections to ensure seamless transfers and mobility. The agency shall assess the possibility of developing city level green links for walking and cycling infrastructure. The agency shall also assess links / areas for redevelopment areas fit for developing as exclusive pedestrian zones/NMT zones. The agency shall assess the need for parking infrastructure in core areas and network improvements for the same. Identify congestion corridors and hot-spots. Data from this exercise shall be used to generate an Origin-Destination matrix and that can feed into developing a Transportation Model building on available / existing data from the recent Comprehensive Traffic and Transportation Plan datasets. The data from mobility surveys shall be used for preparing the mobility plan and proposed

For this, the agency shall prepare a methodology and criteria to assess the development potential of different areas within the LPA, based on parameters such as density of population, economic activity per unit land area, per capita access to infrastructure (with higher weightage given to transport infrastructure), eco-sensitive land areas for conservation etc. Additionally, TOD Zones shall be identified across all Mass Transit Systems including rail-based (i.e. metro rail, suburban rail) and Bus Rapid Transit Systems, as defined in the NTOD Policy. TOD Typology classification and mapping shall be undertaken based on intensity of development and activity, land use mix, socio-economic context, environmental features and the nature of transit facility available. Based on the above, an analytical exercise shall be undertaken to broadly identify areas with potential for development, as well as conflicts, gaps and factors needed to facilitate access to amenities, land value capture and propose strategies for land value capture, sustainability, economic and resource efficiencies.

vi. Accordingly, the Agency shall develop a set of scenarios at regional and city levels based on the identified vision, common city goals, objectives, and targets and assessment of the existing situation and future projections. Each scenario will include the identification of areas for renewal, areas for densification, new growth areas, and prioritized TODs (as corridors or nodes) with necessary augmentation of infrastructure and civic amenities.

vii. Additionally, broad sectoral/cross-sectoral strategies shall be prepared in consultation with relevant agencies, to align with and support these scenarios for compact city growth/other growth scenarios. At the strategic planning level, a preliminary assessment of the economic and financial feasibility along with social and environmental impacts is expected for each scenario, including:

- Demographic, economic, employment and investment forecast
- Integrated land-use and transport, physical and social infrastructure and service demand forecasting
- GHG emissions and resource utilization forecasts
- Legal, regulatory, and institutional development options

viii. The implications of each city growth scenario shall also be assessed at the planning district scale. In defining options, the Agency are expected to pay special attention to the sustainable compact city growth /other growth scenarios and provision of services to the poor and vulnerable. The generation of scenarios and alternative futures should be a combination of policies and physical improvements.

ix. The Agency are expected to use appropriate established methods in arriving at forecasts for different subsystems and use relevant approaches to integrate the outcomes leading to estimates of future land use based on different criteria. The Agency are encouraged to integrate the outcomes of their surveys and data collection with an appropriate GIS-based Planning Support System that would be established within the GBA. Based on this, the Agency are expected to test the effects of various options generated.

Task 2: Preparation of Zoning and form-based Regulations / Development Control Regulations /Guidelines and appropriate recommendations of FAR norms

iii. The agency shall prepare guidelines integrating land-use and transport characteristics along with detailed guideline on density; infrastructure and services norms. They can propose alternative methods to address land use change and its meaningful development promoting four major criteria: (i) social acceptability; (ii) economic viability; (iii) environmental sustainability; and (iv) financial feasibility

Task 3: Evaluate growth scenarios and visualize and arrive at plans and recommendations at different scales through public participation

i. A comprehensive multi-criteria evaluation system with ratings/scoring should be developed in consultation with the GBA and sectoral expert committee to evaluate the growth scenarios. The four major criteria to be considered are: (i) social inclusion (ii) economic efficiency and viability; (iii) environmental sustainability and resource efficiency; and (iv) financial feasibility. These shall consider relevant factors such as socio-economic, environmental and political factors, services to the poor and vulnerable, integration of land-use and transportation, capital and operational costs.

ii. To this end, the Agency shall elicit responses in the form of ratings and preferences through citizen consultations and sample surveys, and with key stakeholder groups by way of focus group discussions (FGDs). This shall be carried out at the spatial scale of planning district and at city scale. Further to receiving responses, the Agency shall identify the preferred growth strategy/scenario through appropriate multi-objective and multi-criteria decision-making methods as mentioned above and prepare recommendations for preferred short, medium, and long term planning strategy along with detailed explanations for the basis for such plans and recommendations.

iii. Further to the identification of recommended growth scenario, detailed sectoral/ cross-sectoral strategies (including that for environment / ecology, economic development, housing, mobility, infrastructure, heritage, disaster management, governance) shall be prepared in consultation with relevant agencies to support the chosen scenario for compact growth. The recommendations will have to be submitted to the Review Committee and sectoral expert committee for evaluation and approval.
